
BATH UNIVERSITY PRESIDENTS VISIT: 12 June 2009

Dr Graham Owens, the Institution's President, visits Bath University with his wife, Margaret, and the Institution's new Chief Executive Officer, Martin Powell.

The President met with Professor Tim Ibell and Engineering staff and researchers over a lunch in the Wessex House before going on to tour the facilities, laboratories and outdoor dry-stone retaining wall test laboratory.

Following this, the President reviewed some of the Undergraduate Final Years' dissertations from their Basil design project before meeting some of the PhD students within the BRE Centre of Innovative Construction Materials and the Research Unit for the Engineering and Design of Environments.

Following his visit, the President and Chief Executive travelled to Bristol for the Western Counties Annual Dinner.
